THE FIRST WORLD SERIES

by Louis P. Masur

As the 1903 season began, no one knew if the pennant winners would face one other in a postseason championship series. The National League and the American League had been at war for two years and peace had only recently come to baseball as a result of an agreement negotiated at Cincinnati in January. But the signs for such a series were promising. In October 1902, the Pittsburgh Pirates, who had decimated the opposition that year by winning 103 games while losing only 36, and finishing twenty-seven and a half games ahead of Brooklyn, played four exhibition games against a group of American League all-stars. The Pirates won two games, lost one, and one affair was called due to darkness. The contests were a financial and popular success, and owners and fans alike expressed their enthusiasm for a series between pennant champions.

Few fans, however, thought that the Pirates of 1903 would repeat for a third consecutive time as National League champs and compete for postseason honors. The team had lost two ace pitchers, Jack Chesbro (who won 28 games in 1902) and Jesse Tannehill (who won 20), when both jumped to the American League prior to the season. Still, player-manager Fred Clarke liked the squad that he brought to spring training at Hot Springs, Arkansas in March 1903. His pitching staff included Charles "Deacon" Phillippe, who had won at least 20 games in each of his first four seasons, Sam Leever, who had won 15 games in 1902, and lefty Ed Doheny, who was coming off of a breakthrough year in which he went 16-4. Even with the defection of the two stars, Clarke thought that the team's pitching remained strong.

He was even more excited about his position players. Centerfielder Ginger Beaumont, whose red hair and good speed furnished his nickname, had led the National League in hitting with a .357 average. Clarke played left field and consistently hit over .300. A promising rookie from Bucknell College, Jimmy Sebring, would patrol right field. In the infield, rookie Ed Phelps assumed most of the catching responsibilities. Massachusetts native Kitty Bransfield, who hit .305 the previous season, anchored first base. Claude Ritchey, a superb defensive player, handled second. The diminutive Tommy Leach, nicknamed "the Wee" because he stood barely 5'6", covered third base and hit the ball harder than most other players. Leach led the National League in home runs in 1902.

For the 1903 season, Clarke decided to move Honus Wagner to shortstop. The previous season Wagner appeared in more games in right field than at short, but it was clear that defensively the player was most valuable to the team in the infield. Wagner looked awkward, with huge hands (like "hams" reporters thought) and bowed legs (like "parentheses"), but he could run and throw. He could also hit. As a rookie in 1897 he hit .335. In 1900 he batted .381. He was coming off of a season in which he hit .330 and led the National League in slugging percentage, RBI and runs. The Sporting News called him "the best ball player in the world."

The 1903 Pirates won their first four games against the rival Cincinnati Reds and the team hardly looked back. Although at the end of May they stood in third place behind Chicago and New York, a fifteen-game winning streak in June put them in the lead for good. The streak began on June 2 against the Giants, a 7-0 shutout. A week later, the pitching staff still had not relinquished a run. The Pirates shut out the opposition for 56 consecutive innings, a record that still stands. The team also put together a 12-game winning streak that began on August 25. The Pirates clinched their third consecutive pennant on September 18 and went on to win by 6.5 games over New York. Their record of 91-49 was only nine thousandths of a percentage point behind the team with the best record in baseball: the Boston Americans had gone 91-47.

Talk of the pennant winners meeting began in earnest during the summer but, despite the pleas of fans and journalists, no official plan to play a postseason championship series had been reached until the second week of September. Barney Dreyfuss, president and owner of the Pittsburgh Athletic Company, and Henry Killilea, first-year owner of the Boston American League Ball Club, finally signed an agreement on September 16. The series would be five-out-of-nine with the first three games played in Boston (October 1, 2, and 3), the next four in Pittsburgh (October 5, 6, 7 and 8), and the final two games back in Boston (October 10 and 12). Only players who were on the team as of September 1 would be eligible to play.

Newspapers immediately began referring to the event as the "World's Championship Series." There was some precedent to do so. Journalists and fans remembered the post-season events of 1884-1890 between the National League and its competitor at the time, the American Association. Those contests were desultory affairs, played at different locations and with differing numbers of games, and according to rules that predated the modern game (pitching distance of fifty feet, shape of home-plate a twelve-inch square, various ball and strike rules). One aspect only from those games carried over into the twentieth century: the idea that the event constituted a "World's Championship Series." With the agreement in place, the Pirates and the Americans (they were not known as the Red Sox until 1908) prepared to play in the first modern World Series.

The Pirates arrived in Boston on September 30, the day before the series was scheduled to begin. Had they traveled directly the trip would have taken about 22 hours, but the team stopped in Buffalo to play an exhibition game against the Eastern League Bisons as a tune up for the series. Getting off the train at the Back Bay station in Boston, the Pittsburgh players took carriages to the Hotel Vendome, a sprawling building constructed in French Renaissance style and the first public building in Boston with electric lights. Fans of the Americans crowded the lobby, looking to gamble on the series and seeking to provoke the opposition. To relieve the tension, Clarke organized a card game and then a few of the Pirates traveled to Cambridge to watch the football game between Harvard and Bowdoin.

Odds-makers had made the Americans the favorites in the first game. Although the National League had the pedigree and Pittsburgh had been formidable for several years, the American League was on its home ground and Boston had Cy Young on the mound. Young was simply a marvel. At age 36, he led the American League with 28 wins and during the season he had become the winningest pitcher of all time. The Americans also had twenty-game winner Bill Dinneen. Player-manager Jimmy Collins was considered the best third baseman in the game. Leftfielder Patsy Dougherty had batted .331 and led the American League in hits. And rightfielder Buck Freeman hit for power in an age when the home run had not yet become the measure of highest achievement in the game; his 25 blasts in 1899 stood as a record until Babe Ruth hit 29 home runs in 1919. Teams did not win 91 games by accident, and Boston was a very good team.

But going into the series, Fred Clarke was less concerned about the opposition than his own team. The injury bug had hit hard in September. Wagner was trying to recover from a badly strained leg. Tommy Leach had a sore throwing hand that was heavily bandaged. Philippe and Sam Leever, who had won 25 games, both complained of sore arms. Worse yet, Ed Doheny, who had deserted the team for a spell during the season after displaying erratic behavior, had again taken leave. With the pitching compromised it was no wonder that bettors favored Boston. Clarke, however, would not use injury or absence as an excuse. "I never went into a game yet that I did not expect to win," proclaimed the manager.

An overflowing crowd of more than sixteen thousand fans filled the Huntington Avenue Base Ball Grounds on Thursday, October 1 for the first game of the series. The ballpark had been built two years earlier on the grounds where the travelling circus and Wild West shows had pitched their tents. It was typical of the wooden parks of the era, sporting a single level of grandstand and bleacher seats on each side of the diamond and featuring a cavernous outfield that measured 530 feet to center field. The overflow crowd assembled behind ropes along the outfield; a ground rule made balls hit into the crowd stand for a triple.

At 3 o'clock Cy Young strode to the mound and the Americans took the field. Clarence Beaumont stepped in and Young threw a strike for the first pitch of the World Series. Beaumont flied out and Fred Clarke fouled out. With two out, Young grooved a pitch to Tommy Leach who tripled into the crowd. Honus Wagner followed with a base hit and the Pirates took a 1-0 lead. The "Flying Dutchman" then remained true to his nickname and stole second. An error by second baseman Hobe Ferris put Wagner on third and Bransfield on first. With Claude Ritchey at bat, Bransfield took off for second. Lou Criger, one of the best defensive catchers in baseball, threw the ball wildly into center field. Wagner scored the second run and Bransfield advanced to third. Young, no doubt shaken by the poor defense behind him, walked Ritchey, a rarity for the pitcher who walked less than one batter per nine innings. Ritchey promptly stole second and with runners in scoring position Jimmy Sebring delivered a base hit scoring two more. Another Boston error put Ed Phelps on base and Deacon Phillippe struck out to end what Boston reporters dubbed the "fatal first inning."

The Pirates went on to win the first game 7-3. Phillippe was masterful, striking out ten and scattering six hits. Observers thought that the Americans had looked nervous. Others speculated that they intentionally threw the first game in order to profit from betting against themselves. But most writers agreed that the performance of the Pirates had been a revelation. "They played a game that could scarcely be out-classed," conceded one Boston newspaper.

The next day, Sam Leever took the mound against Bill Dinneen. But it was clear from the start that the former schoolteacher from Goshen, Ohio was not at full strength. He relinquished a lead-off inside-the-park home run to Patsy Dougherty.

After Collins flied out, he yielded a double to center fielder Chick Stahl who scored on Buck Freeman's base hit. Leever got out of the first inning, but couldn't continue and Bucky Veil, a twenty-two year old rookie spot starter for the Pirates, entered the game in the second inning. Veil performed admirably, giving up only one run in seven innings of work. But Dinneen was masterful as he struck out eleven and shut out Pittsburgh 3-0 to even the series at one game apiece.

Everyone realized that Game 3, the final one in Boston before the teams traveled to Pittsburgh, was a critical contest. A mob of more than eighteen thousand people crowded Huntington Avenue Grounds. They entered through the turnstiles, they climbed over the fences, and they squeezed into every available foot of space. Suddenly, an hour before the game was to begin, the fans broke through the outfield ropes and swarmed the field. It was a riotous scene, simultaneously dangerous and laughable. Several fans were nearly crushed. The players could not take practice. Someone made off with second base. The police and the players used batons, hoses, and bats to drive the crowd back, but still the fans would only move about 150 feet onto the outfield grass. And they jammed up to the foul lines along the first and third base sides. As a result of the congestion, the game was played with the rule that balls hit into the crowd would stand as a double.

SAM LEEVER

Remarkably, the game started nearly on time. Tom Hughes, who won 20 games that season, took to the slab for Boston. Fred Clarke brought back Deacon Phillippe on one day's rest. The Pirates broke through for a run in the second inning when, with two out, Ritchey lifted a double into the crowd and, after Sebring walked, Phelps also produced a ground-rule double. Had the fans been further back, where they should have been, the balls in all likelihood would have been caught, but now the Americans were behind in no small part because of the home crowd. In the third inning, Hughes immediately got into trouble when he walked Beaumont and yielded a double to Clarke. Leach promptly singled and the Pirates extended their lead to 2-0.

Collins had seen enough. The crowd buzzed as they saw the relief pitcher stride to the mound. With runners on first and third, and Wagner due up, Collins brought in Cy Young. The star pitcher promptly drilled Wagner in the shoulder and loaded the bases with no one out. He nearly escaped the inning, but with two out an error allowed Sebring to reach first and Leach to score. Phillippe had a 3-0 lead and that was all he needed. He coasted to a 4-2 victory and the Pirates jumped ahead two games to one in the series with the next four games scheduled for Exposition Park in Pittsburgh.

The jubilant Pirates left Boston after the game on Saturday and arrived in Pittsburgh at 7 p.m. the next night. Several thousand fans were there to greet them. Clarke was optimistic. "We do not expect to be compelled to return to Boston to finish the series," he said. The two losses at home distressed the Americans, but had little effect on the enthusiasm of their fans. About 125 Royal Rooters, as they called themselves, made the trip to Pittsburgh to root for Collins' boys. The city that they entered was a city of industry, a "smoky city" of flames and furnaces, of steel and coal and railroads. Pittsburgh had a population of 350,000 and Allegheny County totaled more than 700,000. The ethnically diverse population embraced the Pirates, especially Wagner who as a boy had worked in the coal mines.

A steady rain over the weekend had made a mud pond of the field at Exposition Park, located on the north shore of the Allegheny River, not far from the confluence of the Ohio and Monongahela (just downriver from PNC Park), and the game scheduled for Monday was postponed for a day. Although the ballpark could seat 16,000 fans, and management added two thousand seats in anticipation of a huge crowd, the postponement and morning drizzle on Tuesday

CLAUDE RITCHEY

October 6 kept the crowd to less than 8,000 people. Collins sent Dinneen to the mound and Clarke, taking advantage of the one-day delay, came back with Phillippe, this time working on two days rest.

Once again the Pirates struck early, scoring a run on base hits by Beaumont, Wagner and Bransfield. A pitcher's duel ensued until the top of the fifth when Boston tied the game on base hits by LaChance and Criger. In the bottom of the frame, the Pirates added a run on an RBI single by Leach, scoring Beaumont who had tripled. Leach was now 6-14 in the series and hitting the ball hard every time up. Boston was putting the ball in play, but Phillippe's defense kept the Americans from scoring. In the bottom of the seventh, the Pirates broke the game open. Phillippe helped his own cause by leading off with a single. Beaumont reached first on an infield hit and Leach came to bat with one out. He lashed the ball to deep right for a triple and two runs came across the plate. Wagner followed with a single and Pittsburgh extended the lead to 5-1. In the top of the ninth, Boston rallied against an understandably tiring Phillippe. Collins, Stahl, and Freeman all singled to start the frame and by the time the inning ended LaChance and Ferris added base hits of their own. But the rally fell short as Boston only scored three runs and lost the game 5-4.

The Pirates had a commanding lead in the series. They needed to take only two of the remaining three games in Pittsburgh to win the world's championship. Clarke was cautiously optimistic, though he was worried about how hard he could drive Phillippe. Collins thought his team still had a good chance. The ninth-inning rally may have fallen short, but it brought the players and their fans back to life. "Phillippe can't do all the pitching," said Collins. "We must get back to Boston . . . We will win two games if it takes an arm."

A crowd of a little over 12,000 came to the park on October 7 for Game 5 of the series. Clarke had little choice but to go with Bill Kennedy who had started 15 games for the Pirates that season and compiled a 9-6 record. It was Kennedy's 36th birthday and he pleaded with the manager for the chance to pitch. At the peak of his career with Brooklyn in the 1890s, Kennedy had won twenty games or more four times. But in two of those seasons he had lost twenty games, and he lost at least twenty-three more times. He would face Cy Young, who had lost the first game and pitched well in relief in the third game. Young was determined to give his best effort in Game 5.

more runs were in. After Criger sacrificed LaChance and Ferris over, Young delivered a ringing shot to left that went for a triple. Dougherty followed with a triple of his own. Boston had scored six runs to break open the game. They scored four more in the seventh as Clarke, not wanting to tax his staff in a losing cause, sent Kennedy back out. When who had thrown only one inning nearly a week earlier on October 2, got the call for the Pirates. A crowd of more than eleven thousand settled in for the contest.

In the third inning Boston broke through, after two were out, to take an early lead. Dinneen singled, Dougherty walked, Collins singled, pushing Dinneen across, and Stahl

1903 PITTSBURG PIRATES

For five innings the two men squared off in a pitcher's duel. But in the top of the sixth Kennedy came undone. Boston's rally started innocently enough when Clarke and Wagner nearly collided while going for a routine fly to short left field and Clarke dropped the ball for an error. Freeman singled. Parent tried to advance the runners with a bunt. Leach raced in to scoop up the ball and fired to Wagner covering third for what should have been a force, but somehow the sure-handed Wagner dropped the ball. With the bases loaded, Kennedy walked LaChance and the first run of the game scored. Ferris then hit a ground ball to short. It should have led to an easy double play, but Wagner threw the ball away for his second error in the inning. "Even the king of ballplayers is not infallible," commented a reporter. Two the veteran finally came off the field he wept as he walked to the clubhouse; his playing days had ended. Boston went on to win 11-2. Young yielded only 6 hits and walked none. The two runs he gave up were unearned. Although Kennedy had given up 11 hits and walked 3, he was also victimized by the errors in the field. The headline in the Pittsburgh Dispatch said it all: "Boston batters have big picnic at our expense."

Everyone realized that the next day's game would prove to be a pivotal contest. A Pittsburgh victory in Game 6 would almost certainly assure them of victory. But a Boston win would knot the series at three games apiece. Bill Dinneen, who had been brilliant in Game 2, and effective in Game 4, started for Boston. A well-rested Sam Leever, singled scoring Dougherty. The score was 2-0. Freeman hit a ground ball to third, but Leach made an error and a third run scored. The Pirates offense had scored only 2 runs in the previous twelve innings while the defense had committed five errors. They scratched out a hit here and a hit there, but were unable to put a rally together. In the top of the fifth, Chick Stahl led off with a triple and Freeman got him home with a fly to center. Before the inning was out, Boston added another run to take a 5-0 lead. It was 6-0 before the Pirates showed life in the bottom of the seventh. Sebring and Phelps singled to open the inning and Leever's groundout moved the runners up. A base hit by Beaumont and a double by Clarke produced three runs, but that was all the Pirates could muster. In the end, Leever and Dinneen's stats looked similar: each gave up ten hits, the one walked two batters whereas the other walked three, and neither struck out more than three. But Boston had won the "nerve-wracking, thrilling game" and tied the series. Afterwards, owner Barney Dreyfuss came into the clubhouse and tried to encourage the team. "I am proud of the way you are fighting," he declared, "for none save you and myself know under what adverse conditions we entered this fight. We are going to keep right at them and we'll beat them yet."

Dreyfuss loved the Pirates and the players respected and admired the owner who had always treated them fairly. The son of an American citizen, Dreyfuss was born and educat-contracted after 1899. "Baseball is my business," he said.

Game 7 was scheduled for the next day, Friday October 9. But Dreyfuss knew the players needed a break and Phillippe needed extra rest. He also knew that if the Friday game could be postponed until Saturday, there would be a much larger crowd at Exposition Park. Good baseball and good business went together. Rain during the night gave Dreyfuss and Clarke the excuse they were looking for and the game was postponed until Saturday, much to the anger of Collins who wanted to play. "Baseball is the sole topic of conversation in this city," reported one correspondent.

What was described as "the largest crowd in the history of baseball in buckets, chairs, barrels or saw horses, and anything that would raise a man a couple of feet," for spare change. Officially, attendance was listed at 17,038, but thousands more scrambled for a view of the game; outside the park, the "hill tops and adjacent roofs were black with people unable to gain admission into the park." Despite the congestion, the crowd remained perfectly orderly.

In a rematch of the Game 1 starters, Phillippe faced Young. The Pittsburgh ace, who had pitched 27 innings in nine days and provided the Pirates with their three victories, had to be tiring, even by the standards of the day where pitchers routinely threw 300 and even 400 hundred innings a year and some ed in Germany before he immigrated to the United States in 1881. At sixteen years of age, he found work scrubbing whiskey barrels in a distillery in Paducah, Kentucky. He took to baseball, and organized a semi-pro team on which he played second base. In 1888, Dreyfuss moved to Louisville along with the distillery for which he worked and purchased stock in the Louisville club. By 1890, he was treasurer. At the end of a decade, Dreyfuss seized an opportunity to purchase the Pittsburgh club, thus placing himself in the position to move most of the Louisville Colonels players to the Pirates when the National League this city" flooded Exposition Park for the afternoon affair. Pittsburgh fans came from towns and cities as far as fifty miles away to witness the contest. The steel works at Homestead, McKeesport, and elsewhere made it a half-holiday. The seats were filled an hour before the 3 PM starting time. Fans stood in the aisles and jammed themselves into any open space. Some adventurous men climbed into the crosspieces that supported the roof and grandstand. Thousands more formed a ring behind the ropes in the outfield and along the right field foul line. Enterprising boys walked behind the rope line offering "old boxes, pitched both ends of doubleheaders. The game started well enough for Phillippe as Dougherty swung at the first pitch and grounded to second. Collins, however, promptly tripled and, before the crowd had a chance to weigh the situation, Stahl also tripled into the crowd in center field. He then scored when Ritchey came home on Freeman's grounder, but Phelps dropped the ball. In every game of the series, the team that scored first went on to win and now Boston was ahead 2-0. The Pirates threatened in the bottom of the first as Beaumont and Clarke got on to lead off the inning. Leach, who was 6-11 against Young in the series, hit the ball hard, but right at second baseman Hobe Ferris who tagged Clarke and threw to first for a double play. In the fourth, the Americans added to their lead. Freeman led off with a triple, and scored on Parent's groundout. Ferris also tripled, Boston's fourth of the game, and scored off Criger's base hit. The Pirates retaliated with a triple of their own in the bottom of the frame as Bransfield lashed the ball to left and scored on Ritchey's groundout. The score was 4-1 entering the fifth inning. In the top of the sixth, Phillippe was victimized by some bad luck and his own error that left him with runners on first and second with no one out. Ferris advanced the runners with a sacrifice and Criger came through with a single to score them both. The score stood 6-1 and if Young knew anything it was how to protect a five-run lead late in the game. The Pirates scratched out a run in the sixth, but gave it back in the eighth. With the score 7-2 headed into the bottom of the ninth, the Pirates revived the crowd when the first two batters reached base and Phillippe singled to score Sebring. But the rally ended there and so did the game.

The Boston Americans had done the unthinkable, winning three straight games in Pittsburgh to take a 4-3 lead in the series. Phillippe had pitched well, yielding 11 hits and no walks. Young, by comparison, gave up 10 hits and one walk. While both teams committed errors, the Pirates miscues cost them. Phillippe "went up against the Bostons once too often," thought the Sporting News. "It is natural to suppose that after a team has faced a pitcher three times in less than two weeks, that they should have had time to familiarize themselves with that man's style of pitching sufficiently to hit him." Boston batters lashed five triples and scored each time. By contrast, the Pirates could not bunch any hits together, and the 2-3-4 batters in the lineup managed one hit among them. In the three games Leach was 2-14 and Wagner 0-10. Clarke admitted, "I am much disappointed. I felt all confidence we would win today and that meant, in my opinion, the series." After the game the Pirates trudged to the train station for the journey back to Boston.

The Americans were elated and Collins declared that he expected to end the series with a victory on Monday. The Royal Rooters, who had remained in Pittsburgh for all the games and took a small measure of credit for their team's success because of their singing and rooting, celebrated wildly on the train. Tim Murnane, the correspondent for the Boston Globe, took the time to reflect on the series: "This shows that baseball is the greatest outdoor sport that has ever been known and it is thoroughly American, combining everything in the way of athletic skill, nerve, grit, and honesty and all that is best in our national character."

The journey dragged for losers and winners alike. Both teams livened up a bit when they joined together in Albany. The Pirates' train was held at the station so that the Boston special could catch up. Players on both sides mingled and chatted on the way to Boston. The mutual respect and admiration shown by the competitors distinguished the series. Fred Clarke remarked that the games were "free from any sort of friction" between the athletes. And the good will carried over to the fans who admired the devotion of their counterparts and acted "more like judges than partisans" when it came to action on the field. When the train reached Worcester, the hometown of both Kitty Bransfield and Hobe Ferris, the two players departed to spend the evening with their families. As they walked off, the Boston Rooters gave each man, one a Pirate and one an American, "three rousing cheers."

After a day's delay due to rain, the teams met on October 13. Thinking the game would not be played because of the weather, the smallest crowd of the series turned out, about 7,500 fans. Prior to the contest, the teams gathered on the field for a photograph. At 3 p.m. Bill Dinneen walked to the mound. He was vying to win his third game of the series and the championship for Boston. Opposing him would be Deacon Phillippe, the only healthy pitcher on the staff and the only one in whom Clarke had any confidence. The manager had to win this game before worrying about who to pitch in a Game 9.

Both pitchers were effective for the first three innings, with the side being retired in order several times. The tension mounted and players and fans alike realized that the team to score first had the best chance to win, especially in this series where no team came from behind to win. The Pirates squandered an opportunity in the top of the fourth when, with two out, Leach walked and Wagner singled, putting runners on the corners. Wagner tried to steal second, and in a nifty play Criger faked a throw to second then fired to third to catch Leach off the base. It was the sort of inning-ending play that lifted one team as it demoralized the other. In the bottom of the fourth, Buck Freeman led off with a triple to center field. Parent bunted but the catcher Phelps misplayed the ball and the Americans had runners on the corners with no one out. LaChance hit a hard grounder to first which served the purpose of advancing the runner. Ferris, who had been 1-11 in the first three games played at Huntington Avenue, cracked a single to center and Boston scored the first two runs of the game. Boston added a run in the sixth and led 3-0 going into the final innings. Phillippe was good, but Dinneen was at his best. He had relinquished four hits and two walks while striking out 6 through eight innings. The Pirates came up for their last chance in the ninth. Clarke flied out. Leach followed suit. Wagner came to the plate. No one thought the game was over yet, not with Honus Wagner up. Dinneen got ahead in the count, but Wagner worked it back to 3-2. Dinneen delivered. Wagner swung with all his might, but "the dull thud of the ball, as it nestled in Criger's waiting mitt, told the story."

The jubilant Boston players gathered at the mound and the fans engulfed them in a sea of celebration. Clarke and his men gathered their equipment and mournfully snaked their way to the carriages that would take them back to their hotel. In the clubhouse, the Boston players presented Jimmy Collins with a gold watch. Within a few weeks, each would receive a gold charm as a souvenir of winning the world's championship. They also received a sizeable check for their share of the gate receipts which they split with the owner: $1182 per man.

The Pirates made their way to Pittsburgh and absorbed the loss the best they could. Deacon Phillippe's comment,

"my arm is numb and I am tired," reminded everyone of the handicap under which Pirate pitching labored. Though disappointed in losing the series, Barney Dreyfuss rewarded his players handsomely. He decided to award them all of the gate receipts, taking no share for himself, not even recovering his gambling debt, said to be several thousand dollars from betting on the Pirates to win. As a result of the owner's largess each Pirate received $1316, more than the winner's share. Dreyfuss also rewarded Phillippe with ten shares of railroad stock. And the players gave Clarke a watch chain and elk tooth's charm. Finally, Dreyfuss gave Clarke a contract to manage the Pirates for life--"that is my baseball life," Clarke added.

Clarke's baseball life would one day lead him back to the World Series. In 1909 the Pirates faced the Detroit Tigers, led by Ty Cobb. Leach and Wagner were the only other two position players remaining from 1903, and both distinguished themselves in the series. Leach hit

.360 and Wagner made up for his performance six years earlier by hitting .333 and knocking in 6 runs. Deacon Phillippe was also with the team, but the star of the first World Series appeared only twice in relief. Still, he managed to pitch six scoreless innings. The Pirates won the World Championship in 1909, but their winners share was only a few hundred dollars more than their losers cut in 1903.

The players carried memories of the first World Series with them all their lives. Decades later Tommy Leach remembered the antics of the fans and the competition between the teams. It was "probably the wildest World Series ever played," he recalled. On September 30, 1953, he and Fred Clarke traveled to Yankee Stadium and joined with Cy Young and Bill Dinneen to throw out the first pitch of the World Series and commemorate the fiftieth anniversary. The hundredth anniversary is now upon us, and it is again fitting to recall the exploits of the men who inaugurated a tradition that helped ratify the place of baseball in American culture.

KEVIN McCLATCHY

CEO & Managing General Partner

Kevin McClatchy was named Chief Executive Officer and Managing General Partner of the Pittsburgh Pirates when the ownership group he formed purchased the franchise on February 14, 1996.

Despite the efforts of other potential buyers to move the Pirates elsewhere, the youngest owner in baseball was determined to keep the team in Pittsburgh. Maintaining a combination of tenacity and ingenuity throughout a grueling nine-month effort, McClatchy organized a group of civic-minded individuals and local corporations to save the franchise.

McClatchy will be long remembered for bringing the greatest ballpark in America to the city of Pittsburgh. On August 6, 1998, PNC Bank struck a deal with the Pirates to call the new venue PNC Park and on March 31, 2001, McClatchy's vision of a new baseball-only ballpark became a reality as the Pirates hosted the New York Mets in the first-ever game played at PNC Park.

Construction on the 38,000-seat venue began in April of 1999 on the land adjacent to the Roberto Clemente Bridge (6th Street) along the North Shore of the Allegheny River. On January 10, 2001, Paul Beeston, the Chief Operating Officer of Major League Baseball, proclaimed PNC Park as the "best-looking baseball stadium he had ever seen." The park has received many other glowing reviews from national and local media during its first two seasons of play.

In 2001, the Pirates played in front of 19 sellouts and a club-record 2,436,139 fans the entire season. In the last five years @Three Rivers Stadium, the organization posted a total of 12 sellouts (four in 1997, three each in 1998 and 1999 and two in 2000). In the final game ever @Three Rivers on October 1, 2000, the Pirates attracted 55,351 fans - the largest regular-season crowd to ever see a baseball game in Pittsburgh.

In just his second year as the club's principal owner, the Pirates went from a last-place finish in 1996 to being the talk of baseball in 1997. Prior to the '97 campaign, Baseball America - considered the premier publication on minor league baseball - rated the Pirates' farm system as "the best in baseball" and USA Today newspaper named the Pirates as its "Organization of the Year" at the conclusion of the season. In December of 1997, USA Today Baseball Weekly ranked the Pirates' success in 1997 as one of the top five baseball stories of the year.

McClatchy was honored by the Anti-Defamation League as its Man-of-the-Year, receiving the American Heritage Award at a ceremony in January of 2001. He was also named by Vectors/Pittsburgh as its Man-of-the-Year for 1999 and was honored by The Post-Gazette for his leadership role in assuring the Pirates' continued presence in Pittsburgh into the new century at the annual Dapper Dan dinner in February of 2000. For his commitment to keeping the club in Pittsburgh and stressing the importance of a new baseball-only venue, in addition to making over 100 speaking engagements in the tri-state area, In Pittsburgh news weekly named McClatchy its "Person-of-the-Year" in 1997.

Before founding the fifth owner of the 116-year-old organization, Kevin had served as National Sales Manager for the Newspaper Network, a subsidiary of McClatchy Newspapers. The McClatchy family, which founded The Sacramento Bee newspaper in 1857, has more than 20 different newspapers in 10 states nationwide.

McClatchy's professional career began at WPLG-TV, the ABC affiliate in Miami, where he served as a sports producer. He later joined Knight-Ridder Newspapers and spent four years in the national advertising and marketing department at The Miami Herald. In 1990, Kevin returned to California, where he ran the daily business operations for The Amador Ledger-Dispatch and continued to work in the advertising and marketing departments for McClatchy Newspapers.

LLOYD McCLENDON

Manager

AGE: 44BORN: 1/11/59 in Gary, INRESIDES: Merrillville, INPLAYING POSITION: Catcher/OutfielderCONTRACT: Signed thru 2003

Lloyd McClendon was named the 35th manager in the history of the Pirates on October 23, 2000. In his second year, the club showed a 10-game improvement from the 2001 campaign; one of only six major league teams to improve by 10 or more games. The 2002 Pirates began the season with a 12-5 record and were in 1st place for 19 days during the month of April. They also finished the year on a positive note, recording a 17-16 record over the final 33 games to finish in 4th place. During the 2002 season, McClendon picked up career win #100 on July 5; a 4-3 victory over the Astros @PNC Park.

In 2001, Lloyd led a club decimated by injuries to a 62-100 record and a sixth-place finish in the N.L. Central Division. All told, the Pirates lost a total of 19 players to injury during the 2001 season, totaling 1,275 games lost. McClendon's first big-league win came on April 4, 2001; a 6-5, come-from-behind victory @Cincinnati. The Pirates split their first eight games in 2001, but would never again return to the .500 level.

Prior to being named manager, McClendon spent four seasons (1997-2000) working as the Pirates major league hitting coach under manager Gene Lamont. He also served the organization as its minor league hitting coordinator in 1996. His previous managerial resume included a California League championship after guiding the Lancaster Stealth to a 26-16 regular season record and the top mark in the 1999 Fall League. In addition, "Mac" managed the Peoria Javelinas in the Arizona Fall League in 2000, but resigned from that duty on November 1, one week after being named manager of the Pirates.

Lloyd spent parts of eight seasons in the major leagues; playing the last four years of his big league career with the Pirates. In 570 major league games, he compiled a .244 batting average, 35 home runs and 154 RBI. He batted .251 with 17 homers and 77 RBI in 312 games with the Bucs.

Originally selected by the New York Mets in the eighth round of the 1980 June free agent draft, McClendon made his professional debut with Kingsport in the Appalachian League that summer. He was traded to Cincinnati on 12/16/82, along with pitcher Charlie Puleo and outfielder Jason Felice, in exchange for pitcher Tom Seaver. In 1986, his second full season at the Triple-A level, Lloyd led the American Association with 24 home runs and was named to the league's post-season All-Star team. He made his major league debut with the Reds the following season against Montreal on 4/6.

After spending two seasons in the Cubs organization, "Mac" was claimed off waivers by the Pirates on 9/7/90. After four seasons in a Pittsburgh uniform, he was granted free agency and signed a minor league contract with Cleveland on 5/14/95. Lloyd retired as a player after appearing in 37 games with Buffalo (AAA) in 1995.

During his big-league career, McClendon appeared in the League Championship Series with the Cubs (1989) and Pirates (1991-92) and compiled a .625 average (10-for-16) in 11 games. He homered off Atlanta's Marvin Freeman in Game Six of the 1992 L.C.S. and shares the Series record for most hits in one inning (2 -10/13/92, 2nd inning). In addition, Lloyd reached base safely in each of his last eight official plate appearances of the '92 L.C.S. (four singles, walk, home run, two walks).

During his 13 big-league seasons with Atlanta (1983-1989), Kansas City (1990) and St. Louis (1991-1995), he compiled a .265 batting average, 59 home runs and 396 RBI in 1,193 games. Perry was elected to the N.L. All-Star team in 1988 and finished his career as the Cardinals' all-time leader with 70 pinch hits.

Following his playing days, Gerald spent three seasons in the Boston organization, serving as the Hitting Coach with Michigan (Class A) in 1997, the Hitting Coach with Pawtucket (AAA) in 1998 and as the club's minor league Hitting Coordinator in 1999.

LOUIS BIERBAUER

Now in their 116th National League season, the Pittsburgh Pirates own a history filled with World Championships, legendary players and some of baseball's most dramatic games and moments.

The Pirates' roots in Pittsburgh actually date back to April 15, 1876, when the Pittsburgh Alleghenies brought professional baseball to the city by playing their first game at Union Park. In 1877, the Alleghenies were accepted into the minor-league International Association, but disbanded the following year.

Baseball returned to Pittsburgh for good in 1882 when the Alleghenies reformed and joined the American Association, a rival of the National League. After the 1886 season, the Kansas City franchise was expelled from the N.L. and Pittsburgh President William A. Nimick's application for membership was accepted.

On April 30, 1887, the Alleghenies defeated the defending league-champion Chicago White Stockings, 6-2, before a crowd of nearly 10,000 at Recreation Park. The victorious beginning was not an indication of things to come, however, as the team managed to finish higher than fifth only once in the 13 remaining seasons of the century. In 1890, the Alleghenies' roster was demolished when key players jumped to a new rival to the National League — the Players League. They staggered to a club-record 113 losses as the two leagues engaged in a bitter battle over talent.

When the Players League folded after only one season, all players were expected to return to the clubs they played for in 1889. But in 1891 Pittsburgh signed Louis Bierbauer, a second baseman with Brooklyn of the Players League who had spent the previous four seasons with the Philadelphia Athletics. The A's and their American Association brethren immediately accused Pittsburgh of "pirating" Bierbauer away from them. Pittsburgh kept the player and the nickname and became known as the Pirates thereafter.

The fortunes of the Pirates turned in 1900 when the National League reduced its membership from 12 to eight teams. As part of the move, Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the defunct Louisville club, acquired controlling interest of the Pirates. In the largest player transaction in Pirate history, Dreyfuss brought 14 players with him from the Louisville roster, including Hall of Famers Honus Wagner, Fred Clarke and Rube Waddell — plus standouts Deacon Phillippe, Chief Zimmer, Claude Ritchey and Tommy Leach. All would play significant roles as the Pirates became the league's dominant franchise, winning pennants in 1901, 1902 and 1903 and a World championship in 1909.

Wagner, dubbed "The Flying Dutchman," was the game's premier player during the decade, winning seven batting titles and leading the majors in hits (1,850) and RBI (956) from 1900-1909. One of the pioneers of the game, Dreyfuss is sometimes called "The Father of the World Series" because he challenged Henry Killilea, the owner of the American League champion Boston Americans, to a post-season playoff in 1903 to determine who was baseball's best team. On October 1, 1903, Phillippe defeated the legendary Cy Young, 7-3, in the first World Series game ever played. Boston, however, later emerged as the Series winner, overcoming a three-games-to-one deficit to win the best-of-nine competition, five games to three.

The Pirates finished as runner-up three times in the next five years before getting another shot at a World Series title in 1909. The Bucs won a club-record 110 games that year with three pitchers — Howie Camnitz (25), Vic Willis (22) and Lefty Leifield (19) combining for 66 victories. The Series pitted the league's batting champions — Wagner and Detroit's Ty Cobb against each other, but rookie pitcher Babe Adams, who was 12-3 during the regular season, emerged as the Series hero for the Pirates.

While Camnitz, Willis and Leifield failed to win a game, Adams won three, including a six-hit shutout in the seventh and deciding game. It was the last of four titles the Pirates would win under Clarke, who managed the club until 1915.

The 1909 season also marked the beginning of a new era in ballparks as the Pirates christened Forbes Field on June 30th that year. Since 1891, the Pirates had called Exposition Park — which was located on virtually the same site as Three Rivers Stadium — their home. Described as the “Hialeah of Ballparks” when it opened, Forbes Field would remain the home of the Pirates for six decades and would host many great moments.

Pittsburgh sank to the league’s second division for most of the next decade, but by the early 1920’s — with an influx of outstanding talent which included future Hall of Famers Pie Traynor, Kiki Cuyler, Rabbit Maranville and Max Carey — Pittsburgh was again a contender. After three straight third-place finishes from 1922 to 1924, the Pirates won the N.L. title by eight and a half games over the second-place New York Giants in 1925.

The Series matched Pittsburgh against the Washington Senators, who jumped out to a three-games-to-one lead. The Pirates, however, bounced back to win the final three games and the Series. Their miraculous comeback included a 15-hit pounding of Hall of Famer Walter “Big Train” Johnson in Game Seven.

In 1926, a rookie named Paul Waner joined the Bucs and batted .336. A year later, his brother Lloyd joined him and belted out 223 hits for a club rookie record .355 average and the Pirates were again National League champions. Paul, who was nicknamed “Big Poison” — batted .300 or better 14 times, captured three batting titles and collected 200 or more hits in eight different seasons. He was named the league’s most valuable player in 1927 and went on to compile 3,152 hits and a .333 career batting average. Lloyd — who was tagged “Little Poison” — hit .300 or better in 10 of his first 12 seasons, compiled a career mark of .316 and accumulated 2,450 hits. Both were elected to the Hall of Fame.

The 1927 World Series featured the Pirates against New York’s famed “Murderers’ Row” with Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig who swept Pittsburgh in four straight games. The next 33 years, Pirate fans went without a pennant winner, although they were not denied their share of great players and great moments.

The Waners were consistently among baseball’s premier hitters during the 1930’s with Paul amassing more hits (1,959) during the decade than any player in baseball. Traynor was one of the era’s best all-around players and is generally regarded as one of the finest third basemen ever to play the game. Shortstop Arky Vaughan topped the .300-mark in each of his 10 seasons with the Pirates (1932-1941) and his .385 average in 1935 has gone unequalled by any National League performer. He, too, is enshrined at Cooperstown.

Hall of Famer Ralph Kiner won or shared the N.L. home run title in each of the seven seasons that he wore a Pirates uniform (1946-52) — which is a streak that has never been matched in either league. In 1956, Pirate first baseman Dale Long hit home runs in a record eight straight games between May 19th and May 28th (that mark was matched by Don Mattingly in 1987 and Ken Griffey Jr. in 1993). Three years later, Harvey Haddix hurled what many consider the greatest game ever pitched when he retired 36 straight Milwaukee Braves hitters over 12 innings on May 26, 1959. The same year, ElRoy Face won 17 straight games in relief.

Though the Pirates failed to finish higher than seventh from 1950 through 1957, the foundation for another championship was being put into place. Standout players were added throughout the decade, including 2001 Hall-of-Fame inductee Bill Mazeroski, Dick Groat, Vernon Law, Bob Friend, Bill Virdon, Face and Hall-of-Fame rightfielder Roberto Clemente.

In 1956, Pirate owner John Galbreath hired Joe L. Brown as general manager. With the club languishing in last place at 36-67 midway through the 1957 campaign, Brown promoted coach Danny Murtaugh to field manager. Within three seasons, the Bucs were again champions of the National League and again matched against the powerful New York Yankees in the World Series. This time the Bronx Bombers featured Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris.

The 1960 World Series remains one of the most incredible post-season encounters ever on record. The Yankees won Game Two, Game Three and Game Six by a combined score of 38-3, but the Pirates used great pitching, defense and timely hitting to stretch the Series to a seventh game at Forbes Field. Pittsburgh took a 9-7 lead into the ninth — thanks to Hal Smith's three-run homer in the eighth — but the Yankees came up with two runs in the top of the ninth to tie the game. The game and the Series ended, however, in the bottom of the ninth as Mazeroski belted what is perhaps the most dramatic home run in baseball history off Ralph Terry. Mazeroski was the only player in baseball history ever to end a World Series with a home run until Jose Carter of Toronto accomplished the feat in Game Six of the 1993 fall classic.

During the 1960's, Clemente established himself among the game's elite players. He collected more hits (1,877) than anyone during the decade and would go on to reach the 3,000-hit plateau in 1972. During his marvelous career, he topped the .300 mark 13 times, won four batting titles and was named the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1966.

During the 1970's, the Pirates were again among baseball's premier teams. In that 10-year span, they won six division titles and finished as low as third only once. In the first 25 years of divisional play, the Bucs won more games (2,100) and finished first more often (nine times) than any other N.L. East club. The Pirates put together a 2,100-1,878 record during that period (.528 winning %).

The Pirates captured two more World Championships during the 1970's. Their 1971 victory over Baltimore was a showcase for Clemente who batted .414 and received the Series MVP award. In 1979, the Pirates became only the fourth team in history to erase a three-games-to-one deficit when they again bested the Orioles in seven games. Hall of Famer Willie Stargell took home MVP honors — as he did during the regular season — with a .400 batting average, three home runs (including the Series' deciding blow in Game Seven) and seven RBI. It was a fitting conclusion to the decade for Stargell, who was the leading home-run hitter of the 1970's (296). While the Pirates brought two world championships back to Pittsburgh during the 1970s, the Pittsburgh Steelers also came to prominence. The Steelers won four Super Bowls during the 70s, which, coupled with the Pirates success, helped garner Pittsburgh the "City of Champions" label.

On October 2, 1985, the Galbreath family and Warner Communications sold the club to Pittsburgh Associates; a group of private investors who were committed to keeping the team in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh Associates was made up of 10 investors representing six corporations, three individuals and Carnegie Mellon University. The group included the Aluminum Company of America, Mellon Bank, PNC Financial Corporation, PPG Industries, USX Corporation, Westinghouse Electric Company, Eugene and Raymond Litman, John McConnell and Harvey M. Walken.

After several lean years in the mid-eighties, the Pirates returned to contention in 1988 when they finished in second place and broke the club's 28-year-old attendance mark.

HISTORY

With players like Barry Bonds, Doug Drabek, Bobby Bonilla and Andy Van Slyke, Pittsburgh started the decade of the 1990's in fine fashion, winning the N.L. East title three straight years. The Bucs became the first team to win three straight division titles since the Philadelphia Phillies accomplished the feat between 1976 and 1978. Bonds captured MVP honors in 1990 and 1992, while Drabek won the Cy Young award in '90. Manager Jim Leyland took home N.L. Manager-of-the-Year honors in both 1990 and 1992. In his 11 seasons at the helm, Leyland won 849 games, placing him third on the club's All-Time Managerial win list.

JIM LEYLAND

Pittsburgh was on the brink of a World Series berth in both the 1991 and 1992 season, but the Pirates lost the seventh and deciding game each year to the Atlanta Braves. In 1992, Pittsburgh came within three outs of the Fall Classic. But in the bottom of the ninth inning at Atlanta's Fulton County Stadium, the Braves triumphed with three runs and won the game 3-2 and the series, four-games-to-three.

The people of Pittsburgh and the surrounding Tri-State area responded well to the club's success in the nineties as the Pirates drew in excess of two million fans in both 1990 and 1991. A crowd of 59,568, the largest ever to watch a professional game in Pittsburgh, witnessed the 65th Major League Baseball All-Star Game, played at Three Rivers Stadium on July 12, 1994. In one of the most thrilling All-Star Games ever to be played, the National League prevailed over the American League in extra frames. Fred McGriff helped send the game into extra innings when he delivered a two-run, pinch-hit home run off Lee Smith in the bottom of the ninth inning that tied the score. After the American League failed to score in the top of the 10th inning, the National League broke it's six-game losing streak when Tony Gwynn scored on a double by Moises Alou.

A new chapter of Pirate history began on February 14, 1996, when Kevin McClatchy and his group of investors purchased the storied franchise from Pittsburgh Associates.

Picked by many publications to finish last in 1997, the Pirates remained in the division race until the final weekend of the season and the club was named USA Today's "Organization of the Year" at the conclusion of the season. Major League Baseball also underwent a change in 1997 with the birth of Interleague play. That season, the Pirates welcomed the Kansas City Royals to Three Rivers Stadium on June 13 for the club's first interleague matchup, which Pittsburgh won by a score of 4-1. While the Bucs contended for the division during the entire season, one of the most memorable moments of the season came on July 12, 1997. That night, pitchers Francisco Cordova and Ricardo Rincon thrilled Pirates fans with the only combined, extra-inning no-hitter in major league history. The game ended in the bottom of the tenth inning when Mark Smith delivered a three-run home run for the 3-0 win.

The 2000 season brought an end to a full century of great moments, a 100-year period which began with three straight National League pennants and ended with an aura of hope and dreams of more championships to come. With a new home on the horizon, the Bucs said goodbye to Three Rivers Stadium with their final game ever played there on October 1, 2000. Three no-hitters, Clemente's 3000th hit, two All-Star Games, countless playoff games, two World Championships and endless summer evenings can be associated with no other place in the history of Pittsburgh than Three Rivers Stadium.

The Pirates closed out their 30-year tenure at Three Rivers Stadium with a 10-9 loss to the Chicago Cubs in the final game of what was the club's home since 1970. Pittsburgh native John Wehner smacked the final home run in the history of the ballpark off Chicago's Jon Lieber. Ironically, Wehner also grounded out to third base for the final out ever at Three Rivers. With the loss, Pittsburgh closed out Three Rivers Stadium with a record of 1,324 wins and 1,082 losses.

In the early morning of February 11, 2001, Pittsburgh bid farewell to Three Rivers when the home of the Pirates and Steelers was imploded.

McClatchy's vision of a new baseball-only ballpark became a reality when PNC Park officially opened its gates on April 9, 2001. Regarded by many as the best ballpark ever built, PNC Park is an intimate two-level structure which offers all fans dramatic views of the downtown skyline as well as the natural grass playing surface.

The anticipation and joy of a new ballpark turned to sorrow, when on the morning of the first regular season game at PNC Park, a beloved member of the Pirates family was lost when Willie Stargell passed away on April 9, 2001.

Despite suffering through their ninth straight losing season in 2001, fans came out in record numbers as the Bucs played in front of 19 sellouts and a total of 2,436,139 customers during the inaugural season at PNC Park.

BRIAN GILES

During the 2001 campaign, the Pirates hired Dave Littlefield as the club's 11th general manager in the team's history. Following the 2001 season, Littlefield changed the make-up of the club by acquiring pitchers Kip Wells and Josh Fogg from the Chicago White Sox. He also signed two-time Gold Glove winner Pokey Reese, which paved the way for Pittsburgh to be one of just six major league teams to improve by 10 games in the standings from the 2001 season.

On June 25, 2002, the Pirates registered the 9,000th win in the history of the franchise with a 4-1 victory over the Montreal Expos, thus becoming just the fourth club to produce 9,000 wins.

JASON KENDALL

Sluggo Brian Giles continued his dominant play during the 2002 season, and fans also witnessed Jason Kendall's 1,000th career hit and a record-breaking year on the mound by All-Star closer Mike Williams, who saved a club-record 46 games.

The 2003 season marks the 100th anniversary of the first World Series ever played and will feature a visit from the Boston Red Sox, the club's first visit to Pittsburgh since the 1903 Series.

PIRATES 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF

THE INAUGURAL WORLD SERIES

THE HISTORY OF THE PIRATES UNIFORM

- 1900: The jersey of this period was short-sleeved with no trim except for a dark blue collar. Stockings were dark blue with red stripes and the cap was blue with a white "P". A "PBC" monogram signifying Pittsburgh Baseball Club was also added to the left sleeve later in the decade.
- 1910: The regular collar was replaced by the short, stand-up "cadet" style with a button collar. Pinstriped material was also introduced. As the team nickname became more accepted, "Pirates" was displayed in capital letters down the button lapel. The cadet-style collar soon gave way to a tapered collar extension, but the button lapel remained solid dark blue with white buttons and a "P-P" straddling the top button. Later in this decade, the cap had piping and also included a "P" in white or red.
- 1920: Standard white uniforms were worn at home and gray on the road with simple graphics and solid colors. The 1925 & '27 championship teams wore the standard capital "P" on its sleeves but not on the jersey.
- 1930: The Pirate uniforms brightened up considerably with added colors, trim features and graphics. The name "Pirates" was placed across the jersey in an arc of fancy red and blue capital letters. Solid blue belts were included and piping trim on the uniforms included blue and red. A red "P" was also placed on the solid blue cap.
- 1937: The name "Pirates" appeared on the jersey in script lettering with underline flourish.
- 1939: A zipper front replaced the button-down jersey.
- 1941: The uniform abandons the traditional "P" or "Pirates" for an emblem of an actual buccaneer. The patch was placed on the left breast of both the home and road jerseys. This was the first time an emblem of the team's nickname was ever worn on a game jersey.
- 1948: The team replaced the traditional blue and red with the present day black and gold. The script "Pirates" and "Pittsburgh" was replaced with the black lettering that you still see today. The cap became solid black with a gold "P".
- 1953: The word "Pittsburgh" is removed from the road jersey, and replaced with "Pirates".
- 1957: The Pirates became the second team to begin wearing sleeveless jerseys.
- 1962: Numbers were introduced on the front of the home and road jerseys and have been there ever since.
- 1970: The Pirates became the first major league club to adopt the new double-knit fabric uniforms. The jersey became a pullover with no button or zipper. The pants contained a built-in sash belt. The cap crown was mustard yellow with a black bill. Within two years, nearly every other club was wearing a double-knit uniform.
- 1976: The Pirates, as well as other clubs, commemorate the National League's centennial by wearing the old striped, pill-box style caps. The Bucs wore yellow caps with a black bill and black stripes.
- 1977: Abandoned were the traditional white and gray uniforms in exchange for combinations of white, gold, black and pinstriping. The caps became black with yellow stripes. Players' last names appear on the back of the jerseys for the first time.
- 1985: The Pirates returned to the basic white and gray uniform.
- 1987: The Pirates replaced the striped cap in favor of the traditional standard black round crown type.
- 1990: A script "Pittsburgh" is added to the gray road uniform for the first time since 1952.
- 1991: The Pirates return to button-down jerseys and belted pants.
- 1995: Going back to a more traditional look, the Pirates removed the names from the back of the jerseys.
- 1996: That change lasted only one year, as the Pirates return the names to the back of the jerseys.
- 1997: The organization introduce a complete new look by introducing an alternate home jersey as well as bringing the color "red" back into the uniform for the first time since 1946.
- 2001: With the opening of PNC Park, the club enters a "New Era of Baseball." The team re-introduces the sleeveless jersey as part of both the home and road uniform. The Pirates also become the first team ever to wear a cap with a red underbill (cap worn with the alternate home jersey only).

1920-35, 37

Born November 11, 1899 in Framingham, MA, died March 16, 1972 in Pittsburgh. Threw and batted righthanded. Harold (Pie) Traynor was one of the finest third basemen in major league history, earning that reputation in a 17-year playing career spent entirely with the Pirates (1920-1935, 37). Regarded as an outstanding defensive player, Traynor was also adept with the bat, compiling a lifetime .320 average. While he hit just 58 home runs, he managed to drive in 1,273 runs. Pie ranks in the Pirates' top 10 in games, at bats, runs, hits, singles, doubles, triples, total bases, RBI, extra-base hits, batting average and stolen bases. The Hall of Famer (inducted in 1948) also managed the Pirates from 1934 through 1939. Number retired in 1972.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE

1955-1972

Born August 18, 1934 in Carolina, P.R., died December 31, 1972 in San Juan, P.R. Threw and batted righthanded. A Hall of Famer (inducted in 1973), Roberto Clemente was selected by the Pirates in the player draft when the Brooklyn Dodgers left him unprotected after the 1954 season, his first as a professional. For the next 18 years Clemente starred in the Pirate outfield. He won four N.L. batting crowns and batted .317 in his career, with 240 home runs and 1,305 RBI. He also won 12 Gold Glove Awards. He hit safely in all seven games in both the 1960 and 1971 World Series, winning the Series MVP Award in 1971 when he batted .414 with two homers and two doubles against Baltimore. Clemente was a 12-time All-Star and the N.L. MVP in 1966. He ranks in the Pirates' top 10 in 12 offensive categories. He died with four others when a plane carrying supplies to earthquake-stricken Nicaragua crashed. Number retired in 1973.

HONUS WAGNER

Born February 24, 1874 in Carnegie, PA, died December 6, 1955 in Carnegie. Threw and batted right handed. One of five players originally elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1936. Honus Wagner is widely regarded as the best shortstop to ever play the game. "The Flying Dutchman" won eight N.L. batting crowns - second only to Ty Cobb's 12 titles - during a 17-year stretch in which he batted over .300 in each season. Wagner came to Pittsburgh in 1900 after three seasons with Louisville, a franchise that had disbanded. He played with the Bucs until 1917 and ended his career with a .329 average and 101 homers. Wagner was a coach with the Pirates between 1933 and 1951. He ranks among the Pirates' top 10 in 11 offensive categories. Number retired in 1952.

DANNY MURTAUGH

1957-1976

Born, October 8, 1917 in Chester, PA, died December 2, 1976 in Chester. Threw and batted right handed. A second baseman with the Phillies, Braves and Pirates (1941-43, 46-51), Danny Murtaugh was one of the most successful managers in Pirates history. He managed the Bucs in four different stints during 15 seasons between 1957 and 1976. During that time he became one of only 36 managers to win 1,000 games, compiling a record of 1,115-950, his win total ranking second on the Pirates all-time list to Fred Clarke's 1,422. He led the Pirates to four Eastern Division crowns and two World Series Championships (1960 and 1971). He was named The Sporting News Manager of the Year in 1960 and 1970. Number retired in 1977.

40

JACKIE ROBINSON

1947-1956

Born January 31, 1919 in Cairo, GA, died October 24, 1972 in Stamford, CT. Threw and batted righthanded. Known forever as the first black player in the major leagues, Jack Roosevelt Robinson played for the Brooklyn Dodgers from 1947 to 1956, helping them to six pennants in a 10-year span and to their only World Championship in 1955. He was named the N.L. Rookie of the Year in 1947 and the league's MVP in 1949. A six-time All-Star, Robinson also became the first man to integrate the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1962. In 1997, as a tribute to the legacy he created, Major League Baseball retired his number 42 league-wide on the 50th Anniversary of his breaking the game's color barrier. The Pirates officially retired his number in a pre-game ceremony on July 12, 1997.

COLLINS: BOSTONS WILL WIN

The Boston American League team are in excellent condition for the post-season series of games with the champion Pittsburg team of the National League. The Americans received a challenge from the Boston Nationals for such a series, but this has not been seriously considered in view of the greater possibilities offered by the Pittsburg series. James Collins, captain and manager of the Americans, said in an interview: "I am ready for such a series and am sure that the games will draw tremendous crowds. I believe we will win a majority of games in such a series. I think we have the better team in every branch. We have three pitchers, Young, Hughes, and Dineen, and you cannot find their equal in any club. Outside of Leever, Pittsburg's pitchers do not seem to be in very good shape."

"Comie Mack has said that the Boston infield is the greatest ever in many respects. When you consider the Athletics' splendid infield, this is praise indeed. As for the Pittsburgs' infield, I don't underrate them in the least. They are a splendid lot of players. It is hardly fair in my to criticize the Pittsburg players, as I haven't seen them play in several years. I shouldn't like to say anything that isn't so."

"We have no such scruples as Uncle Ben Shibe has. If I remember rightly when Pittsburg offered to play the Athletics a post-season series last year one of the stipulations was that there was to be a side bet. Shibe objected to this on the ground that he never bet and that he did not believe in that sort of thing. Well, we differ from him in that respect and are willing to take the consequences."

THRONG AT GAME

Greatest Outpouring of Baseball Lovers Boston Has Ever Known

PITTSBURGS WELCOMED

BOSTON, Oct. 1. - Joyfully, expectant, gleefully confident, Boston's baseball lovers, augmented by hundreds of enthusiasts from other cities, all adepts of the champion American, made their way to the Huntington Avenue grounds yesterday afternoon. Throngs followed throngs so closely that from 1 o'clock till long after 3, all the avenues of transportation leading to the ball park were filled, and, at times, well-nigh choked with the happy, good-natured "fans," laughing, chatting, happy in the opportunity to see the clash of champions. It was the greatest outpouring of baseball lovers the city has ever known and was a magnificent tribute to clean baseball as played by the two greatest teams in the world.

The bleachers on both sides of the diamond filled up rapidly after 1 o'clock, the patrons of these seats realizing that early the occupation of the game from the enjoyment of the game from a seat. And they calculated well, for long before 2 o'clock not a seat was left in either bleacher, and the aisles were choked. Quickly the ropes were stretched around the entire outfield, and the continuous pouring stream of spectators was diverted from the bleacher seats to the space behind the rows.

forced down to defeat was cosmopolitan in the broadest sense of the word. Side by side sat professional men and grocery clerks, ministers and sports, college professors and graduates of the sand lot, all bound together by one great, all-absorbing love for the national game.

When the game was called and Unrepe Connolly relieved the uncertainty of the score card by announcing Young and Criger at the battery for Boston, the crowd was keyed up to the point where it was willing to sacrifice its throat if need be to show its appreciation of Boston's ability.

Fortunately or unfortunately that opportunity didn't come. The careless, heartless Pittsburgs found "Uncle Cy" for three hits, ever-reliable Criger got in a poor throw to second and diverse other happenings gave the Pirates four runs in the first inning. The crowd was in the first inning. The crowd was to hand a team of the calibre of the Pittsburgs, and it sat in silence hoping against hope.

But Pittsburg tallied again, in the third, fourth and seventh before the Bostons recovered. For the home ninth, Freeman sat safe on Wagner's fumble, Parent banged safely to left and the crowd began to root. Lachance and Clarke began scoring. O'Brien fanned and was caught out. Young and Criger were out. The crowd was disappointed.

After The Game Doings

Into the highways and byways the great concourse unwound itself. The spacious park gave up that which it had absorbed, but it had exacted its tribute and the laughter and gaiety were gone. In place the throng walked out in silence and pondered. The idols had been ruthlessly torn from their proud position, and the blow was hard to realize. The one consolation lay in the morrow and in the strength of the hope of today's game the uncertainty was forgotten and the fans went home to dream of "Bill" Dineen and his benders.

The Pittsburg players and their outcome of the game. The players were taken directly to their quarters at the Hotel Vendome and, after dressing, sat down to the training table for a general justification. After dinner, the members of the team went to Keith's, where boxes were reserved for them. They enjoyed the performance immensely, as well as a trip over the beautiful theatre.

SCOUTING

ED CREECH DIRECTOR OF SCOUTING

Ed Creech was named Pittsburgh's Director of Scouting on November 20, 2001. Creech and his staff made Ball State University's right-handed pitcher Bryan Bullington the #1 overall selection in the 2002 June draft, Ed's first draft with the club.

Creech spent three seasons (1999-2001) as an assistant to Kevin Malone, the Los Angeles Dodgers' General Manager, before joining the Pirates in his current capacity. With Los Angeles, he was responsible for overseeing all amateur scouting and was in charge of the Dodgers strategy and selections in the annual June draft.

Prior to joining the Dodgers, Creech spent the 1998 campaign as the Director of Scouting for the St. Louis Cardinals. In that role, he was responsible for selecting outfielder J.D. Drew with the fifth overall selection in the 1998 June draft. Ed was also the Scouting Director for the Montreal Expos (1994-97) and had been part of that organization since 1973, when the Expos selected him in the 2nd round of the amateur draft.

Creech played six seasons in the Montreal farm system, advancing as high as the Triple-A level. He retired as a player after the 1978 season and was out of baseball until returning as a coach with Calgary (Expos' Rookie) in 1982. THEY SAID IT...

"I name Honus Wagner first on my list, not only because he was a great batting champion and baserunner and also baseball's foremost shortstop - but because Honus could have been first at any other position, with the possible exception of pitcher. In all my career, I never saw such a versatile player."

- Legendary Hall-of-Fame manager John McGraw referring to Pittsburgh Hall-of-Fame shortstop Honus Wagner.

BRIAN GRAHAM

DIRECTOR OF PLAYER DEVELOPMENT

Brian Graham is in his second season with the club, having joined the Pittsburgh organization as its Director of Player Development on December 3, 2001. In his role, Brian oversees all aspects of the Pirates Player Development system, which includes the coordination of instruction, the signing of minor league free agents, staffing, budgeting, player movement and the Latin American field operations. In addition, he installed and implemented a system of Individual Player Plans which provides instruction and resources to insure that the Pirate prospects bridge the gap between each player's potential and their performance in the mental, physical and fundamental aspects of baseball.

During his inaugural season, Pirate farm teams combined to finish with a .571 winning percentage (399-300), the second-best mark among all major league organizations. All six teams finished with winning records, four teams participated in the post-season, two clubs (Lynchburg and Hickory) won championships and 19 players were named to post-season All-Star teams (the most players among all major league organizations). In addition, the Pirates were honored as the 2002 TOPPS' Baseball "Organization of the Year."

Prior to joining the Pirates, Brian was a major league coach with the Cleveland Indians for two seasons (1998-1999) and with the Baltimore Orioles in 2000. Graham spent the 2001 season as the Minor League Field Coordinator and Director of Instruction for the Florida Marlins.

As a minor league manager in the Cleveland organization, Brian compiled a 704-491 (.589) record. In the eight full seasons he managed, Graham's teams finished first five times and second three times during the regular season, reaching the post-season eight consecutive years. He was named the Carolina League's Manager-of-the-Year in 1991 and was named Minor League Manager-of-the-Year by USA Today's Baseball Weekly in 1996. Brian has served as a manager during the winter ball season for Aguilas in the Dominican Republic and has also coached and managed in the Arizona Fall League (1993-94).

Originally selected by Oakland in the fourth round of the 1982 June draft, the former second baseman played five seasons in the minor leagues with Oakland, Milwaukee, Detroit and Cleveland. He also played baseball and football at UCLA. Brian was a member of the 1978 Fiesta Bowl team and finished his collegiate career as UCLA's all-time leader in hits, stolen bases and runs scored. Graham was elected to UCLA's Baseball Hall-of-Fame in 1996.

Brian was born on 4/9/60 in San Diego, CA. He attended UCLA for four years, but received his Bachelor of Arts degree in Behavioral Science from National University in San Diego. Graham resides in Cranberry Township, PA, with his wife Karen and three children; son Jack (10) and daughters Kelsey (8) and Kendall (1).

He compiled a .247 batting average, 37 home runs and 204 RBI in 515 minor league games. Banister made his major league debut and only big-league appearance with the Pirates on 7/23/91. He owns a career major league batting average of 1.000, having singled off Atlanta's Dan Petry @Three Rivers Stadium in his only big-league at bat. Jeff went on to miss the entire 1992 season due to right elbow surgery. He has battled bone

Banister served as a player/coach with Carolina (AA) in 1993 before beginning his managerial career with Welland in the New York-Penn League in 1994. LANNY FRATTARE

Voice of the Pirates

The 2003 season marks Lanny Frattare's 28th as a broadcaster with the Pittsburgh Pirates. When the season ends, he will match Hall-of-Famer Bob Prince (1948-1975) for the longest tenure as a radio broadcaster with the club.

A native of Rochester, NY, Frattare received his bachelor's degree in communications from Ithaca (NY) College in 1970. His association with the Pirates organization began in 1974 and 1975 when he broadcast games for the Triple-A Charleston (WV) Charlies. He joined the Pirates at the major league level in 1976.

Frattare enjoys golf, presidential history and music. He hosts a celebrity golf tournament at St. Clair Country Club each July for the benefit of Family Links. Lanny's wife, Christine, is the Director of Choral Studies and Theatrics at Upper St. Clair High School and is the assistant conductor of the Mendelssohn Choir of Pittsburgh.

Frattare has two children; son David (28) and daughter Megan (21). David currently works in the Attorney General's office of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and his wife, Ann Marie, is in the marketing department at Giant Eagle. Megan is currently attending the University of the Arts in Philadelphia. David's wife, Ann Marie, gave birth to Spencer Ryan on 2/15/02.

GREG BROWN

Play-by-Play Announcer

Greg Brown is in his 10th season as a radio and television play-by-play announcer with the Pirates. Prior to joining the Bucs broadcast team, he spent five seasons (1989-1993) doing play-by-play and color commentary for the Buffalo Bisons of the American Association as well as hosting a sportstalk show on WGR Radio. Brown also worked as a color analyst and a pre- and post-game show host for the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League for three seasons (1991-93).

Greg's association with the Pirates actually began in 1979, when he interned in the Promotions department while attending Point Park College. Following the World Series that year, Brown worked as the clubhouse manager during the Instructional League program in Bradenton, Florida. His 10-year stint in the Bucs front office included work in the Sales, Public Relations and Broadcasting departments. Greg also served as the team's public address announcer during the 1987 campaign. In 1988, he was a sports anchor on WFMJ-TV in Youngstown, OH.

In 1997, the Pennsylvania Press Broadcasters awarded Brown and his colleagues first place for radio play-by-play. The crew also received an A.I.R. Award (Achievement in Radio) from the March of Dimes for "Best play-by-play" in 2002.

Greg, a native of Washington, D.C., resides in McCandless Township with his wife Kim and son Ryan (4).

THE PIRATES MEDIA RELATIONS OFFICE: Located on the fourth floor of the team's administrative building on the corner of General Robinson Street and Federal Street. All persons wishing to visit the media relations office must sign in with the 24-hour security guard on the street level of the building.

MEDIA ENTRANCE TO PNC PARK: All members of the media must enter the ballpark at the "Press Tower" - the tallest of the two towers located on General Robinson Street, adjacent to the Home Plate entrance to the park (left-field line). YOU MUST HAVE A PHOTO ID TO GAIN ACCESS TO THE BALLPARK.

PRESS BOX/BROADCAST BOOTHS: All broadcast booths are located on the press box level. Access to the press box is available only by the "Press Tower" elevator. Only accredited members of the media and credentialed personnel will be permitted in the press box. The press box is an active working area. Cheering and loud conversation will not be tolerated at any time. The Pittsburgh Pirates prohibit any person under the age of 18 to enter the press box level on game days (unless authorized or accompanied by a representative of the Media Relations department). Anyone violating these policies will be asked to leave the premises. No cameras (still or video) are allowed in the press box unless authorized by Media Relations.

PARKING: Media parking is once again very limited. Daily requests will be handled on a first-come, first-served basis. Season parking passes will be distributed along with season credentials in March (if applicable). At the time this media guide went to print, the season media parking situation was still unknown since last year's lot (GOLD 3) is expected to be closed due to the ongoing development of the North Shore.

INTERVIEW ROOM: Located along the Service Tunnel between the home and visiting clubhouses. The room will be used for media conferences and other special events and interviews.

PRESS LOUNGE: Located along the Service Tunnel between the home and visiting clubhouses. The lounge is open to credentialed members of the media and front office staff 2 hours prior to the game. The lounge will close approximately 1 hour after the start of the game. A full meal is served to all media for $7. Soft drinks and snacks will be available during games on the press level.

PHONES FOR MEDIA: The Pirates will supply 10 Charge Call phones in the working press box. Please let a media relations representative know if you wish to have your own dedicated phone line in the press box.

NO SMOKING: Smoking is prohibited in the press box and in the broadcast booths. Those wishing to smoke may do so on the stairwell of the "Press Tower," located outside the press box entrance.

GENERAL

SEASON CREDENTIALS: Season credentials must include a photo of the bearer and will be issued only to those legitimate news-gathering sources who will cover the Pirates every day. Only members of the working press will be issued credentials (this does not include freelance writers). No one under 18 years of age will be issued working credentials, unless clearance has been given by the Pirates. Only Pittsburgh Pirate, National League or BBWAA-issued credentials will be honored. Credentials are not transferable and should be visible at all times.

DAILY CREDENTIALS: These will be issued to those who do not qualify for season credentials, including freelance writers and weekly and monthly publications. Daily credentials will also be issued to area radio and television stations when the need arises for extra pre/post-game personnel and daily newspapers making last-minute changes in coverage. We ask that all daily requests be made at least 24 hours in advance of the desired game. All daily credentials must be picked up at the MEDIA ENTRANCE to PNC Park, located along General Robinson Street, adjacent to the Home Plate entrance to the park. All media must show photo identification and observe the rules and regulations set forth by Major League Baseball before gaining access to PNC Park.

CREDENTIAL REQUESTS: Applications for working media credentials should have been made in writing and received no later than Wednesday, February 19. All requests must come from sports editors, sports directors or photo editors and submitted on official media outlet letterhead. Requests for daily credentials can be faxed to (412) 325-4413 or e-mailed to any one of the three members of the Media Relations staff.

ON-LINE SERVICES: Per Major League Baseball guidelines, the Pirates will not issue working credentials to any on-line service, unless they meet each of the following criteria:

1. It is part of a national news gathering agency.
2. It reaches a broad audience.
3. It produces original content.
4. It has an established record of developing original content.
5. It employs full-time journalists.

CLUBHOUSE ACCESS: Both clubhouses are located along the Service Tunnel. The Pirate clubhouse is on the third base side and the Visitor's clubhouse is on the first base side. The Pittsburgh clubhouse is open to credentialed media from 3 1/2 hours prior to game time until 45 minutes before game time. It re-opens to credentialed media approximately 5 minutes following the conclusion of the game. The manager's office may be open briefly between games of a doubleheader only for those with early deadlines. The clubhouse is closed during rain delays. It is also closed while the club is taking batting practice on the field, unless the player needed is in the clubhouse. Access to the visiting clubhouse will be determined solely by the visiting club's policies. In addition, the clubhouse is not a "lounge" for members of the media - you must have a specific reason for clubhouse access to gain admittance. If you have specific interview requests for a player or coach, we encourage you to contact a member of the Pirates' Media Relations staff, who will try to accommodate your needs.

Per Major League Baseball, all visitors to the home and visiting clubhouses must sign in before entering.

FIELD ACCESS: The field and dugouts are accessible to credentialed media from the time the press gate opens until the end of the visiting club's batting practice. If the visiting club does not take batting practice, the field is accessible until 45 minutes before game time. At no time is the media permitted in fair territory and all media must stay inside the first and third base bags. Access to the field is available on the Service Level only by one of two tunnels: one leading into the visitor's dugout or one located right outside the home clubhouse, which leads to the area adjacent to the third-base bag and Pirates dugout.

AUTOGRAPH POLICY: Credentialed members of the media are prohibited from requesting autographs or equipment on the playing field, in the dugout or in the clubhouse. Should the need arise for an autograph request, notify the Media Relations Department. Any violation of these guidelines could result in immediate termination of the credential and future access.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Darkrooms are located along the Service Tunnel behind home plate. Limited photo locations are available at various field level areas, as well as in the TV locations located around the ballpark. All photographers must have credentials and roving is prohibited unless authorized by the Pirates. No freelance photographers will be granted credentials. All photographs taken are to be used for news-gathering purposes or officially licensed products. All still photo locations should be reserved through Dave Arrigo, the Pirates' official team photographer.

RADIO & TV REPORTS: Reports are defined as NON play-by-play reporting by non-rightsholders of scores and game highlights, including scene setters, game in-progress updates and post-game summaries.

- Reports must be limited to 60 seconds in length and no more than one report per inning may be filed to each media outlet.
- Radio and television reporters/stringers must notify the Pirates of their plans to do live reports at the time credentials are requested.
- Television reporters may file live reports from the field or an assigned press-level booth up until game time. Live television reports by non-rightsholders are prohibited while the rightsholder is on the air or while the game is in progress. Live television reports - to air during regularly scheduled news programming - are permitted during the game only when there is no home telecast. These in-game reports may not show the game in progress.
